Trading Dreams

I have basically traded one dream, living in my historic apartment in front of a 375 year old church in a World Heritage Zone in Panama, selling the apartment, to fund film school, beer school and restoring a commercial property in the future as an apartment, office and bar in the historic district.

Re-invention. As the market has deemed me too experienced (old) & skills not relevant (Goldilocks Syndrome) I am going to film school for digital reprogramming and probably beer school after that. I will be interested to see what people who have never travelled, never taken a risk, never done anything.....tell me then what I can't do.
